Enemy Envelopment Appears as Danger To Both Sides

vision being trapped. Smaller American units fighting with the South Koreans may be surrounded.

The situation is this: On the western front—the main American forces are massed here. In an attack that began Jan. 25th—self-acknowledged "limited offensive"—they have driven to the Han river at Seoul, taken Incheon, the capital's port, and seized Kimpo, the chief airfield.

On the central front—here the Reds are trying a "save face" breakthrough that may be a desperate bid to carry out their pledge to throw the Allies out of Korea.

Across 38th Parallel On the eastern front—South Korean forces aided by naval gunfire have driven again across the 38th parallel to Yangyang, almost 40 miles north of the sagging Allied central front.

What will happen next? These are the possibilities: 1. A counterattack may throw back the enemy and stitch the damaged Allied line.

2. The Allies may slowly pull back both ends of their line to a defensive position farther south.

3. The Reds may sweep on through and sweep west to try to cut off the American forces, or sweep east and try to cut off the South Korean divisions.

The third possibility is a real peril, but it is unlikely to happen. The American army in Korea today is under orders to save itself no matter how critical the situation becomes. It will withdraw rather than stand and be destroyed. So will the South Korean army. And both armies have sufficient mobility to escape.

U. S. Forces Stronger But the American Eighth army is committed to the killing of as many enemy troops as possible. It will stand as long as it can. And unless its South Korean Allies will clear across its right flank, it may not have to withdraw very far.

Why? Because the American forces are stronger than they have ever been. They are now prepared to defend the United Nations line in depth. They have reserves to throw in. And those reserves are placed where they can do the most good.

The Chinese have to carry most of their supplies on human backs or in slow ox carts. They cannot well attack down the eastern part of the peninsula because they would stretch their primitive supplies.

lincoln charter, granted in 1851. The case was decided against Lincoln in circuit court. He appealed to the state supreme court which upheld him, ruling that the county could not tax the railroad.

But railroad officials thought the line too far and lay it open to the attack of naval guns offshore.

They had to come down the western roads—Seoul to Taejon to Taegu to Pusan—or down the center of the peninsula. The limited offensive in the western sector by the heavy gunned American divisions shattered them there.

That left only the central corridor for them to drive down. The American second division late last month broke up their first attack in this zone at Wonju. Now they have hit again at Hoengsong, a few miles north of Wonju.

This second Red offensive was expected by Lieut. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the Eighth army. He has been preparing for it.

If the enemy breaks completely through the first Allied defensive screen of South Korean troops, it will be hit—if it hasn't already been hit—by full strength American divisions playing the role of roving fullbacks, backing up the line.

They have both manpower and firepower. And if the marines are among them—as well they may be—they have a few old scores they are aching to settle with the Chinese.

The Americans are in a strong position to contain the Chinese offensive, and they will hold where they stand unless overwhelming numbers of the enemy force them to pull back to protect their flanks.

About 20 miles below Seoul is a battered town called Suwon. It is the western anchor of what the Japanese army used to regard as the best defensive line in South Korea. The central bulwark of that line was Wonju and its eastern bastion on the sea of Japan was Samchok.

The United Nations holds that line now—and it will take a carpet of Chinese flesh to breach it.

His Condition Due to Lack of Mr. James C. Greene, a newspaper advertising account executive, lives at RFD 3, Charleston, West Virginia. Just look at Mr. Greene's keen eyes. You can tell Mr. Greene is a man who is hard to convince until something is really proven to him. But let us have Mr. Greene tell his experience in his own words.

"For quite some time I suffered from nagging aches and pains and then was told by neighbors and friends about HADACOL. After taking HADACOL for a short while, the pains disappeared.

"My work demands steady nerves and accuracy, and those pains hampered me a great deal. I was skeptical of the claims made by my friends who are using HADACOL. I went to a drugstore and got a bottle. To my delight, HADACOL went right to work and the shooting pains left my body. I can vouch for everything in the advertisement."

So be fair to yourself! If you have such deficiencies why go around feeling half alive—a burden to others—when you can get this great HADACOL at any drugstore. Remember, HADACOL must help you or your money will be returned.

his fee to high—it was "more than a New York lawyer would charge," Pratt says.

So Lincoln returned to McLean county circuit court in January, 1857 to sue the railroad, and obtained a judgement.

Lincoln appeared before a justice of the peace to collect the $5 fee.

He had billed Samuel Brown of Taylorville $10 for defending him in 1850 on charges growing out of Brown's firing at a gang of boys raiding his watermelon patch.

Lincoln could collect only $3 from Brown so he went to the justice of the peace.

"He collected," Pratt says, "but it was four years from the time the suit began until he got his other $5."

Lincoln's determination to collect his law fees wasn't one-sided Pratt says.

In the famous Duff Armstrong murder trial Lincoln refused to take a fee for defending him because Armstrong had befriended him in New Salem.

Hand-to-Hand Combat With Chinese Reds And The North Koreans

sive — a typical maneuver launched at night with massive forces at the weak point — threatened to wipe out the big Allied gains of the past 18 days in the central sector.

On the western front, the Allies had swept Saturday into Seoul's industrial suburb of Yongdungpo, its big airport at Kimpo and its seaport of Inchon.

But the four or more Allied divisions massed around Seoul in the west and the South Koreans inside North Korea on the east coast could be forced to pull back for their lives unless the Communist smash in central Korea is stopped.

On the central front, the Reds were attacking Hoengsong from three directions. Hoengsong is 10 miles north of Wonju, the road center where the U. S. Second division with French support smashed an earlier Red drive that permitted the Allies to launch their own offensive Jan. 25th.

From Hoengsong, five allied columns had thrust from six to nearly 12 miles in a fan-shaped drive west, north and northeast of the town.

The Red offensive wiped out most of these gains and threatens to crumple the whole center of the 150 miles Allied line across Korea.

Hoengsong, 50 air miles east of Seoul, is in rugged hill country where the terrain favors the enemy. Roads are narrow and two mountain passes south of Hoengsong normally permit only one-way traffic.

The Communists move along these icy, precipitous roads like mountain goats but transport is dangerous for the mechanized Allied forces.

The temperature had dipped to zero.

Three Red regiments drove the main wedge seven miles deep to a point five miles southwest of Hoengsong.

Build Up Strength

A U. S. Eighth army spokesman said elements of three Chinese Communist army corps and two North Korean corps were attacking in the Hoengsong area. Frontline intelligence officers estimated the Red strength as including six divisions — some 60,000 men. The Reds had been building up strength here for some time.

The attack began in zero weather late Sunday night north-northeast and northwest of Hoengsong. South Korean positions were overrun.

The Eighth army said two Red divisions spearheaded the drive on Hoengsong. One South Korean regiment was surrounded north of the ruined town.

The aim of the attack was to cut the main road leading 10 miles southward to Wonju, Allied supply and communications hub.

A. P. correspondent William J. Waugh reported elements of the three Red regiments southwest of Hoengsong were only one mile and a half from the main road.

The general line of the Red counterattack ran from Chipyeong 20 miles west of Hoengsong, to a point in the mountains 10 miles northeast of the central sector city.

Allied elements which had fanned out 10 miles northeast of Hoengsong were forced to fall back by the suddenness of the South Korean collapse. Units supporting the South Koreans could not bring artillery into full play because they were not sure where the Reds were.

Some South Korean stragglers retreated within a few miles of Wonju. Waugh said Americans were stopping them and sending them back north.

Shatter Road Blocks

The Reds threw up two road blocks behind Allied forces north of Hoengsong. Both were knocked out. American tanks late Monday blazed away at a third block about 1½ miles north of the town.

American officers in that area reported the retreating South Koreans were re-assembling and added: "All they have to do now is fight their way out."

Waugh described the Red strategy as similar to that used on the Chongchon river front in far north-central Korea last November. There the Chinese, attacking at night, threw their main punch at South Korean units covering the Eighth army's right flank. The flank caved in and forced a general withdrawal by the Allies.

An intelligence officer said the situation around Hoengsong was serious, but not as critical as first feared.

Hand-to-hand street fighting inside the rubble town was reported by A. P. correspondent John Randolph. There were no details. He said a Red road block had been thrown up south of the town.

Randolph's dispatch was timed at 7:10 p. m. (4:10 a. m. CST) Monday. A 10th corps spokesman told him there was no clear picture of the fighting as yet, but that many Red columns had flanked and infiltrated Allied positions.

An American ranger task force raided a Communist concentration point three miles east of Chipyeong early Monday, but withdrew under heavy fire.

French war correspondent Jean Marie de Premonville was killed in the action.

The Twelve-Mile Road district election has been set for 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning February 22 at the County Court room. Election of one commissioner is to be held by members of the City Council and the County Court.

Present members are Atwill Bohlin, Ernest Thompson and Charles Van Dyne. The term of Mr. Van Dyne expires this year and his successor is to be elected. It was previously stated U. S. E. was a commissioner of the Twelve Mile Road district, but his term expired last year.

One commissioner is elected each year for a three-year term.

Deem Crossing Parallel 'Unwise'

LONDON, Feb. 12 — (AP) — Informed sources said today Britain considered the crossing of the Korean 38th parallel by South Korean troops "very unwise."

The South Korean capital division was reported to have crossed the former dividing line between South and North Korea yesterday.

These sources said Britain was in consultation with the United States on the question.

About two weeks ago, a foreign office spokesman declared that Britain believed there should be consultation among the nations with troops in Korea before any decision was made on whether to punch north of the 38th parallel again.

Many of the same officials now would like the U. N. forces to establish a stable line near the parallel first and then try to negotiate with Communist China. Only if China refused to negotiate, these officials believe, should a decision be taken on whether to send U. N. forces north of the 38th parallel.

The victim was riding in a truck driven by his brother, John. Authorities said the empty tank struck the boy on the head when the truck skidded and went into the ditch.

A Basketball Program at Sacred Heart

Interest is Keen
And Should Develop
A Strong '51 Team

A basketball program for boys who are in grade school and freshmen who did not make the varsity teams at Sacred Heart high school has been underway for the past several weeks at the Sacred Heart gym under the direction of Rev. A. Mignor, athletic director and Palmer Nichols, basketball coach.

The program will continue for several weeks and consists of games between various organized teams. Following the games during which each boy is given a chance to play, ten of the boys making the best showing for the day play a final game which usually results in a close and well played game.

Learn Fundamentals

The boys are given instruction on the fundamentals of basketball such as passing, dribbling, shooting and general basketball play.

Interest has been good among the boys and some good prospects are being given special instruction so they may be ready for next season for play on the junior team or the B team.

Bill Hodges and Dick Stohr of the Gremlins have been assisting in the program coaching teams and lending assistance in the demonstration of fundamentals.

Players Are Assisting

Boys who have been reporting for this program are J. Dick, P. Ressel, P. Jett, T. Menefee, R. Stefchik, Bennett, Mosier, N. Roufens, D. Dick, Burke, Adams, Rucaness, Boul, Welliver, Matea, McKee, Hildebrandt, D. Matea, C. Mosier, M. Metter, Mark Mettler, Weathers, Wasson, Bahner, Rialti, J. Ressel and several others.

Thieves Get Scrap

FRANKFURT, Germany—(P)—Shortage of raw materials sorely needed for defense has caused a wave of scrap thefts in Western Germany.

German Police records list thousands of thefts of scrap brass, tin, zinc, copper and lead. The thieves are spurred by rising prices offered by scrap dealers. Even the youngsters are getting into the mad hunt for metal. Police blame most minor thefts on children, some as young as seven years. They say the children often are encouraged by their parents.

Eyes Offered Blind Official

CAIRO—(P)—An Egyptian law student has offered his eyes to replace those of Education Minister Taha Hussein Pasha, who has been totally blind since early childhood.

The student is Abdel Hadi Heikal, who is enrolled at Egyptian University's School of Law. Friends of the blind minister say the offer probably will be turned down with thanks. A similar offer came from a Spanish student during the minister's recent trip through Europe.

Taha Hussein Pasha is Egypt's most prominent writer and scholar despite his handicap. His crusade to spread education in Egypt has won him great popular support.

The Dynamas Back Into the System Race

Defeat Osawatimie Saturday Night in One-sided Game

The Missouri Pacific Dynamas climbed back into the thick of the fight for the system championship by defeating the leading Osawatimie, Kansas, team by a score of 82 to 41 in a game played at Osawatimie on Saturday night.

Osawatimie, the team that had defeated Little Rock, was favored over the Sedalia team which had dropped two decisions to the Arkansas team. But the game found the Dynamas in top form and after the intermission with the Sedalia team leading by a score of 38 to 29 the visitors really went to town.

Edwards Leads Scoring

Led by the sharpshooting of Dean Edwards with 28 points and Foster McGuire with 25, the Dynamas were never in danger. The clever passing and deadly shooting was too much for the Kansas team.

The Dynamas were also alert on the defense, holding the Osawatimie team with its famed fast break to a standstill, while the Sedalia five played a ball control game with a deadly accuracy that proved too much for the Kansas team.

Play Columbia Tuesday

The Dynamas will play their next game on Tuesday night against the Columbia, Mo., team in the Warsaw Lions-sponsored tournament.

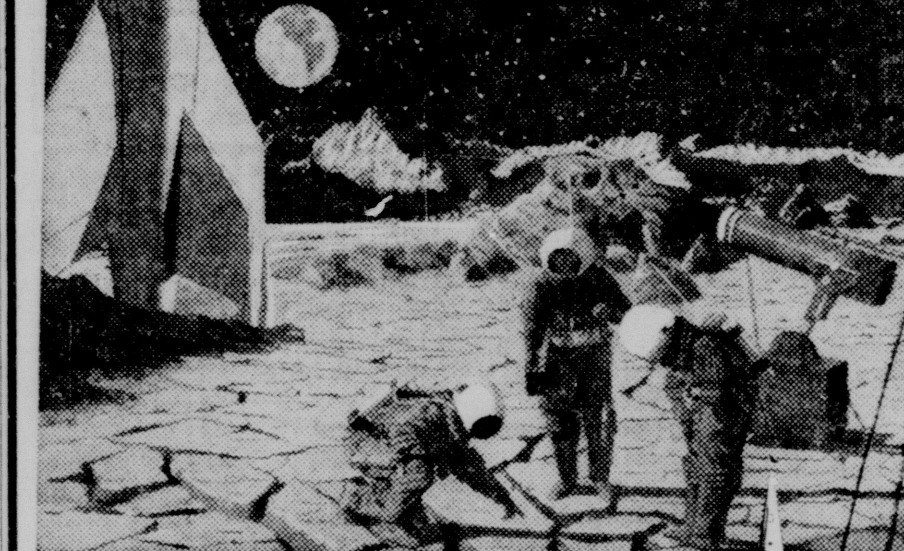

Saturday's game was the first one for the Dynamas under the direction of their new coach, William Dunlap. A return game with the Osawatimie team at Sedalia will be played and then on March 3 the Dynamas will journey to Little Rock for a game there.

Speed Lack Hampered The White Sox

Two Fine Pitchers
Given Up To Build Up Outfield

(This is another of a series of articles written by the major league managers for the Associated Press under their own bylines giving a review of their team's chances for 1951 and sizing up the other clubs.)

CHICAGO WHITE SOX

By Paul Richards

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(P)—According to the information I have received, the basic weakness of the Chicago White Sox in 1950 was the lack of speed, especially in the outfield.

That is one of the reasons we gave up two such fine pitchers to the Red Sox like Bill Wight and Ray Scarborough for outfielder Al Zarilla. I know we gave up a lot but I believe in the long run, the deal will prove beneficial to us.

The addition of Zarilla, as nearly a proven ball player as it is possible to obtain in a deal, should improve our outfield both defensively as well as offensively and add speed as well.

Zarilla will be in one outfield position, that's certain. Gus Zernial, who drove in 95 runs last year, but who struck out 110 times, must prove to me he can hold down one of the outfield positions.

I'm going to give the young fellows—Jim Busby, from Sacramento, Eddie McGhee and Bill Higdon from Memphis—a thorough tryout. All have speed and ambition and are our most promising rookies. That doesn't mean that Dave Philley, who did such a fine job last year, is shut out. He'll still be playing a lot of outfield. We know what he can do; we don't know what the rookies can do.

Strong In Pitching

Despite the loss of two fine pitchers, we are still very strong in that department. That along with the fancy fielding of Chico Carasquel at shortstop, probably is our main strength. We are hoping that a year of experience with the talented South American has added poise to Nelson Fox at second and that his natural improvement will make him a worthy partner in double play production.

Where we need some luck is in developing some new right-handed pitching strength. Joe Dodson should help us a lot. But we're also looking for Howie Judson or Lou Kretlow to come through for us. Or maybe it will be one of the young rookies. You can't have enough pitching, you know.

We have some good power. With hitters like Hank Majeski, Eddie Robinson, Zernial and Zarilla in

Sedalia's Own Champion

Sedalia's own Rex Rossi, world champion trick rider and trick roper, will appear on the Liberty stage Tuesday night in a "Rodeo Round-Up." He will appear with his famous Rodeo horse, "Apache," and his two teen-age trick roping brothers, Bonnie and Jimmie Rossi, who are in school in Sedalia. Stage shows will be at 7:20 and 9:30. Rex has appeared in over 200 movies, stunting and doubling for such notables as Roy Rogers, Gene Autry and Bob Steele. He was a featured performer at Madison Square Garden in 1950 and will appear there again next year. Also playing tomorrow night is the first run screen hit "Postoffice Investigator," starring Audrey Long and Warren Douglas.

The lineup, we should be able to give any pitcher something to worry about. Nobody will have much better catching than we will with Phil Masi and Gus Niarhos. I always have regarded them as fine backstops.

Anyone who ventures an opinion on the possible effect of the military draft must realize that it amounts to something less than a good guess. However, it is only natural to think that the first division to think that the first division, if for no other reason than that they are already up there.

Usually, the better clubs have young players. Not only are the younger players the best athletes, but they are the best soldiers, too. I'm sorry I do not feel qualified to evaluate the remainder of the league as I have been away from the American League since 1947. This is my first try at managing a big league club, you know.

Tomorrow—Frank Frick, Chicago Cubs.

Guides on Crops Have Been Received

Be Of Assistance in The Planning of Spring Acreage

State acreage guides on grains and other crops to assist farmers in planning an all-out production program for 1951 were received last week by the Missouri State Production and Marketing Administration committee in Columbia. They include crops which make up the greatest proportion of spring-planted acreage.

The committee said that the goals for Missouri's 1951 production would be: cotton (upland) 650,000 acres; corn 4,500,000 acres; oats 1,950,000 acres; barley 100,000 acres; sorghum for grain (harvested acreage) 25,000 acres; soybeans for beans (harvested acreage) 1,160,000 acres; flaxseed 5,000 acres; and rice 5,000 acres. Except where otherwise stated, guides are based on the planted acreage.

These guides will be broken down on a county basis as soon as possible, the committee said. There will be no individual farm guides, however.

In addition to these crop production goals, the state committee has set a goal of 500,000 acres of improved pasture land in the state for 1951.

No production guides are announced for peanuts or tobacco, since these two commodities are still under acreage allotments.

National guides were also announced. They include: Corn 90,000,000 acres; wheat (spring seeded only which does not apply to Missouri), 21,400,000 acres; upland cotton 28,400,000 acres; American Egyptian cotton 135,000 acres; oats 43,500,000 acres; barley 13,235,000 acres; grain sorghums 7,150,000 acres; soybeans for beans 13,000,000 acres; flaxseed 4,000,000 acres; dry edible beans 1,632,000 acres and rice 1,900,000 acres.

Allotments on corn, wheat and cotton were terminated some time ago. The fact that rice will no longer be under acreage allotments was announced last week.

Announcing the production guides, Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan said, "We are not at this time announcing specific production guides for livestock, dairy and poultry products. However, it is very important that livestock production be continued at high levels. Farmers are already planning increases in meat production and this trend should be continued to the extent that adequate feed supplies are available. This production depends primarily upon feed concentrates, hay and pasture and farmers must make their plans with close attention to the feed situation."

Mr. Brannan also said that suggested levels for a number of other crops, including seeds and fresh fruits and vegetables, will probably be determined and announced well before planting time.

These production guides are designed to help farmers plan their crops in line with over-all needs, the state PMA committee said, not only for ample production now but for protecting the nation's resources for future use.

It was explained that because there is a limit to the total crop acreage which is available, production guides must be planned within a balanced schedule. Increases in some crops mean decreases in others and it is not practicable to ask for as large an acreage in some instances as would otherwise be desirable.

"Full production from Missouri farms is essential in the defense effort," the committee said, "and these guides are aimed at the highest feasible level of production for those crops which will be most needed."

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Is this your farm?

Most of the readers of the Democrat-Capital have been following this series of the weekly Mystery Farm Pictures with considerable interest.

The pictures that appear in this space in Monday's Democrat and Tuesday morning's Capital were taken sometime ago by an aerial photographer. The pictures were not shot with the knowledge of whose farm it was. It was a random job; a picture here and a picture there.

The Mystery Farm picture appearing in last Monday's Democrat and Tuesday morning's Capital, was that of Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, of Beaman, route No. 1.

The farm consists of 135 acres and is located 14 miles northeast of Sedalia on the farm to market road "O."

It is where Mrs. Adams was reared and was formerly known as the Marion Miller place when her father ran a store there, the place being known as "Lookout" for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams purchased the property about five years ago and he has added considerable improvement since. A new barn has been completed since the picture published was taken.

The farm is all in grass and Mr.

Adams does general farming and also raises cattle and hogs.

Their family consists of five boys and one girl. June, 17, helps his father farm. Lawrence, 14, is a freshman in Smithton high school. Mary Ann, 12, and Richard Dan, 8, are in grade school at Lookout and George Alan, 5, and Paul Wray, 3 are of the home. Mrs. Adams is a correspondent for the Sedalia Democrat and Capital.

Goal of 2,000 Acres of Land In Pasture

Calculated to be Of Great Help in Defense Effort

Two thousand acres of improved pasture land in Pettis county is PMA's goal for 1951. According to the county Production and Marketing Administration committee, this goal represents one of the greatest contributions to the defense effort that Pettis county farmers can make, and when considered from the standpoint of economics it represents a sound investment for the farmer and the consuming public.

The achievement of this goal would effectively contribute to the conservation of our agricultural resources. At the same time, it would result in increased production, better land use, and build fertility reserves for future needs, the committee said.

After consideration of these and other facts, the PMA committee has decided to make available approximately $15,000 of the county Agriculture Conservation Program funds for program assistance in connection with this practice in 1951. These funds represent program assistance for 1,000 acres or one half of the county's goal.

Pettis county farmers are being encouraged to carry out this practice on an additional 1000 acres without program assistance. "After all," the committee said, "this is good, sound business for both the producer and the consumer."

Need of Production The county PMA committee points out that there is a need for increased agricultural production on many fronts. "We need more food, feed, and fiber. However, we do not think it necessary to divert any of our better cropland to pasture use in 1951. Our increase in production from pasture land should come from a better use of the present acreage; and in order to better use our present pasture acreage, farmers are encouraged to incorporate more of the better methods as provided for in our pasture improvement program."

In participating with the ACP, two rates of assistance are offered for improving pasture land—$10 and $15 per acre provided specifications for each rate are carried out as required under the Agricultural Conservation Program. This assistance is equal to approximately one-half of the cost per acre in providing the necessary plant food and seed to produce a good pasture which will continue to produce abundantly for several years. Farmers who are interested in this practice should contact the county committee for prior approval of assistance before beginning to prepare the seedbed or applying the plant food required so they may know all the specifications for the practice.

Again, the committee wishes to emphasize the importance of this phase of agriculture conservation. "Better pastures mean more milk, beef, butter, etc., at lower cost, and at the same time better land

PMA Office to be Closed Saturdays

Effective March 1, the Pettis county Production and Marketing Administration office (formerly known as the Triple A) located at 209 1/2 South Ohio avenue in Sedalia will be closed Saturday of each week, announces the county PMA chairman, Robert W. Rissler. Beginning March 1 until further notice, the office will remain open five days each week, Monday through Friday.

Winners to be Luncheon Guests

In recognition of having made the most progress in Balanced Farming projects sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City and the University of Missouri, 33 farm families in each of the 33 participating Missouri counties have been announced as winners. Among winners from Pettis County are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lamm, and Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Dyer, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tolson, Houtsonia; and Wiskur brothers, Windsor.

All of the winning families will be guests of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce at the Balanced Farming Recognition Day luncheon on February 28 at the Hotel President in Kansas City. The balanced farming project is an annual event and winners are judged for their participation in the following: (1) soil improvement and efficiency of crop production; (2) efficiency of livestock, dairy and poultry production; (3) convenience of field layout and farmstead arrangements and improvements; (4) family food supply and home improvements; (5) farm and home accounts.

Taft Leading GOP, As To the Foreign Policy

Ohio Senator Is Talked of For Nominee In 1952

By Jack Bell
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—The Republican foreign policy voice heard most loudly in congress these days belongs to Senator Robert A. Taft, who is playing a somewhat reluctant role as a spokesman on international affairs.

Since illness has restricted the activities of Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) the tall, balding bespectacled Ohio senator has become the man most listened to within a resurgent GOP minority in congress.

At 61, Taft is a potential 1952 Republican presidential candidate. But more important just now, as chairman of the senate Republican-policy committee he is the principal thorn in the Truman administration's side on international affairs.

The Taft-vs-Truman feud is an old one. It started back in 1945, soon after Mr. Truman went to the White House. "It came to white heat in 1946 when Mr. Truman denounced by name in a message a Taft amendment to the price control act and has been going on since.

Disagrees With Acheson
Taft's argument with Secretary of State Acheson is of later vintage but of no less intensity.

Acheson and Taft have served together for years as fellows of the Yale corporation, a pretty exclusive organization in its own right. The two have always been friends, and there is no record of major disagreements between them on Yale policies.

But while Taft maintains he likes Acheson personally, he doesn't like his foreign policies.

When Republicans first proposed in the last congress to adopt a resolution calling on President Truman to replace Acheson, Taft was one of those who held back.

The Ohio senator found his mail was running so strongly against Acheson, however, that he soon took the leadership in ramming the ouster resolution through a Republican caucus.

The switch was characteristic of Taft. He is never really satisfied to follow. His White House upbringing seems to have instilled in him the idea that he was born a leader.

He has the Taft tradition behind him on this. His grandfather Alphonso was secretary of war under President Grant, attorney general and successively minister to Austria and to Russia.

Father Was President
His father, William Howard Taft, was the 27th president and later chief justice of the United States.

Born in Cincinnati, Bob Taft lived from 11 to 14 in the Philippines, where his father was governor general. He went to the Taft school in Watertown, Conn., was graduated from Yale in 1910 and from the Harvard law school in 1913.

Poor eyesight kept Taft out of World War I, but he served in the U. S. food administration abroad and later became counsel for Herbert Hoover and the post-war American food administration in Europe.

From 1913 to 1938 Taft practiced law in Cincinnati, serving four terms in the Ohio legislature. He won his first senate race in 1938 and was at the top of his party's policy organization in the senate just six years later.

The period before American entry into World War II found Taft contending as he does now that peace should be the chief aim of foreign policy. He backed a buildup in American military power and said he wanted to aid Britain as much as possible without involving this country in war.

Questions Authority
And just as he now contends that President Truman acted without authority to order American military intervention in Korea, Taft contended that Franklin D. Roosevelt was involving the country in war without authority by sending American troops to Iceland and ordering the seizure of Axis ships.

He voted against the first draft act in 1940 and in August 1951 opposed extension of the service of draftees.

He voted against repeal of the Neutrality Act in November, 1944, asserting that the repeal could only be interpreted as giving the president power to grant an undeclared war against Germany, Italy and Japan.

Subsequently Taft voted for repeal of the arms embargo, but he opposed passage of the first Lend-Lease Act. Once it was on the books, however, he supported appropriations for it and twice voted to extend it.

He went along in the war years as a member of the "loyal opposition," but on Dec. 4, 1945, he was one of seven senators who cast a "no" ballot on legislation to implement the United Nations charter.

He contended then the charter delegated to the president power to commit the country to war without consulting congress.

Taft opposed also the Bretton Woods international fiscal legislation. He said that the program of foreign lending was going to be on such a scale as to "wreck this country."

Taft's reluctance to assume GOP leadership in foreign affairs may not seem to jibe with his apparent conviction he was born to lead.

Those who know him well explain that the Ohioan apparently feels this leadership has thrust upon him a certain responsibility to compromise when he would rather be free to speak his opposition mind.

Taft's philosophy of politics calls for the minority to be the all-out opposition party. His idea of the way to beat the Democrats is to fight them at every fork of the creek.

For Strong Air Force

Always a big air force man, Taft is fighting now against what he contends is the administration's plan to put a large American land army on the European continent.

He challenged President Truman's right to send troops to Europe without prior approval of Congress but later said he isn't interested in the legal technicalities.

He said President Truman didn't have any right to send American troops into Korea when he did but acknowledged he would have supported a resolution endorsing the action after it was taken.

At one point in a recent speech Taft said he thought "we had better commit no troops to the European continent at this time." He said, however, that "some modifications" were necessary because "we have made certain promises under the Atlantic pact.

Developing this, he said he would be willing to commit "some limited number of divisions" to Europe if the Europeans demonstrated they were taking the initiative and were going to build up their own defenses.

Taft is against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's serving as supreme commander of the North Atlantic defense forces. He argues that the Europeans will regard this as American willingness to shoulder the principal military load.

His position in this matter might be compared to a willingness to cut his own throat for a principle.

Eisenhower has been mentioned as well as Taft for the 1951 GOP presidential nomination. He might be unavailable for that nomination if he is engrossed in military duties. But if Taft's wishes were followed he might be at home—available for the nomination.

On Far Eastern questions, Taft has called for a peace treaty with Japan, the rearming of the Japanese and American protection of the Japanese islands by a "few" land divisions and air and sea forces.

He would offer sea and air help

In Carrier Crew At Mardi Gras

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12—David G. Bryant, seaman, USN, son of Ed Bryant, Route 2, Sedalia, Mo., was among the 900-man crew of the aircraft carrier Monterey which swelled a throng of thousands of visitors here for Mardi Gras.

The Monterey, one of three Navy ships that visited this carefree city for the celebrations, tied up at the foot of famed Canal street, providing "grandstand seats" for her crew. The carrier arrived her Saturday.

Sub-freezing weather preceded this year's carnival season, postponing several colorful parades until later dates. There were 13 parades this year. One hundred fifty Monterey sailors marched in some of the Mardi Gras Day parades while others attended masquerade balls Tuesday night.

Gay revelers, masked since sunrise for Shrove Tuesday, saw Lindsay A. Larson, Navy hospital corpsman, rule as King of the Krewe of Patria and King of Carnival. Climaxing his reign as King for a day, the Korean veteran toasted his WAC Queen and her armed forces court from his magnificent float in front of New Orleans city hall.

The Monterey left New Orleans Feb. 7 to return to Pensacola, Fla., and resume aircraft training duties.

Report Batteries Stolen
The Kansas City Salvage Co., 420 West Second street, reported to the police Sunday the theft of two batteries and two log chains from that establishment, probably Saturday.

The batteries were new and one log chain was nine feet long and the other eight feet long. Police are investigating the robbery.

Runs To Grass Fires
The fire companies were called out twice Sunday where burning grass had gotten out of control. No damage resulted.

The first run was at 12:40 o'clock in the afternoon to 821 West Eleventh street. The second alarm was at 1:25 o'clock in the afternoon to 1806 South Carr avenue.

Colleagues say the somewhat headstrong Ohio senator runs the show in party conferences when he wants to grab the ball. Sometimes he ruffles feathers.

But he can sit smilingly and unmoved when he is under attack from an irate Republican—as he did on one occasion when Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, was reported to have made it plain that he thought Taft was usurping the right to speak for GOP senators generally.

Through it all Taft apparently wears well with his colleagues, some of his most ardent supporters for the presidential nomination are men who have served years with him, know his faults but respect his ability.

Far East Freight Rates Rise
SINGAPORE—(AP)—Freight rates between Australia and Far East ports have gone up 10 per cent due, mainly, to the very slow turn-around of ships in Australian ports. Ships are held up for periods varying from 10 days to three weeks in Australian ports waiting for loading or unloading, a spokesman of the Straits-Australia conference said here.

Founder's Day Observed By P. T. Council

Mrs. Wheeler, of Springfield, Was Guest Speaker

The 54th birthday of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers was celebrated by the Sedalia Council Wednesday at the First Baptist church.

A covered dish luncheon was served at 1:00 o'clock. The table decorations were carried out for each month and each guest sat at the table of their birthday anniversary.

The devotion was given by the Reverend Thomas W. Croxton, pastor of the First Baptist church. Past presidents of the council were honored and presented a small token of appreciation by the president Mrs. G. B. Owens. Those past presidents attending were: Mrs. E. W. Brubaker, Mrs. William Reed, Mrs. Phil Burford, Mrs. M. E. Green, Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick and Mrs. John League. Also honored were Mrs. Kirman Riley, district president and Mrs. Raymond Chancey, Pettis county council president.

Mrs. Frank Wheeler, state magazine chairman of Springfield, was guest speaker. She said the parent teacher organization was the largest volunteer group in the world and if each and every one would work as a guide we wouldn't need as many guards for better world conditions.

"Know your course, each and every Parent Teacher worker should know the objects and policies of the work and follow them," the speaker continued. "The letters P. T. A. also stand for 'Purpose, Thought and Action' and to follow these makes better Parent Teacher co-operation," she asserted.

The meeting closed with group singing led by Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, accompanied by Mrs. T. W. Croxton.

Colored Movies Of Rose Garden

A meeting of the Sedalia Rose society held Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the court house was well attended.

Mrs. Herbert Seifert presided. Miss Lucy Bothwell presented the speaker of the evening Martin C. Pashea, of Independence, and Mrs. Pashea, who were given an honorary membership in the Sedalia Rose society.

Mr. Pashea is a well-known rose grower, having won the highest show award to which an amateur rose grower can aspire, the Nicholson rose bowl, for his exhibition of roses grown and shown by himself in his home garden.

For the past year Mr. Pashea has been supervisor of the Glendale Rose Garden in Independence owned by Blevins Davis. He planned and planted 5,000 rose bushes in the garden with the loss of only 13 bushes. By fall the plants attained a height of five to eight feet.

Mr. Pashea showed colored movies of this rose garden while being planted, cared for and when in full bloom.

Preceding the meeting a 6:30 dinner was served in the Magnolia room at Bothwell hotel given by the members of the Sedalia Rose society honoring Mr. and Mrs. Pashea.

Pot Luck Supper For Cub Scouts

In observance of National Boy Scout week, members of Cub Scout Pack 67, their parents and friends enjoyed a pot luck supper Thursday evening at the service building of the Broadway Presbyterian church.

Each of the five dens was assigned a table. The clubs were then given crepe paper and allowed to decorate their den table as they wished. Members of each den and their parents ate at their respective tables.

Following the supper, P. A. Silvers showed two interesting movies, which were made available through the public library.

The supper was well attended and enjoyed by all. Tom Henry, cubmaster, announced that the regular monthly pack meeting will be held at Horace Mann school Thursday evening, February 15th.

The business session was presided over by the new incoming president, Mrs. Guy Snyder. Mrs. J. F. Kirkhart, retiring Noble Grand received in the club. She was given the full degree of Past Noble Grands and enrolled as a new member.

Memorial To Miss Kate Koch

In tribute to the late Miss Kate Koch, of Knob Noster, who was killed in an automobile accident on July 17, an automatic bell system has been installed in the Northwest school in Marshall where for 19 years she was principal.

The bell system was purchased with money given by many persons ranging from pennies from school children to substantial sums from relatives and others. Soon after Miss Koch's death friends began working to obtain a memorial and Mrs. T. T. Huff, with whom Miss Koch had made her home the 19 years she was in Marshall, was put in charge of the fund.

When about $75 had been contributed Mrs. Huff took the matter up with the PTA at Northwest school and a committee was appointed to confer with the new principal, Miss Helen Rose Brockway.

The bell system, which automatically rings for classes and recess, has been needed for some time, and was decided on as a memorial for Miss Koch. A plaque reading "In Memory of Kate Koch" will be placed under the control clock in a few weeks.

Miss Koch was a sister of Mrs. W. J. Carr of Knob Noster.

The ABC's of DRY CLEANING

by Doc Bob, Your Dry Cleaner!

Styling of Shantungs

This year shantungs have been dressed up a bit by introducing shantung taffeta, tweed shantungs, changeable shantungs, and small dobby designs to large jacquard patterns on a shantung background.

WILL THEY WEAR? WILL THEY CLEAN?

1. Some shantung fabrics lose their hand or body in cleaning. Your cleaner can resize this fabric and restore its original body.

2. Some dye-stuffs on shantungs take on a greyed, dulled or lifeless color. In some cases, this can be corrected!

NOW CONQUER CONSTIPATION FOREVER

—When normal regularity is restored and maintained by the revolutionary medical discovery, Melcalose!

Now at last comes the astounding medical discovery doctors and constipation sufferers have vainly sought for years. A way to conquer constipation forever... establish regularity... maintain normal function—without the violent action of harsh drugs, chemicals or oils; without irritating, bloating effects often caused by messy seeds or "bulk" preparations.

Even chronic constipation sufferers of 20 to 30 years standing were restored to normal regularity in as little as 7 to 14 days with Melcalose.

Supplies What Nature Needs

Easy-to-take Melcalose Tablets dissolve into a mild, non-purging gel which mixes completely with contents of colon to produce light, soft, smooth, comfortable bowel movements that slip easily, rhythmically past the bowel wall.

When this rhythmic activity is restored and maintained, constipation ends forever. Very important, Melcalose Tablets are harmless to take, even over long periods of time. Get Melcalose Tablets from your druggist today.

Unlike ordinary laxatives which often upset digestive tract, Melcalose Tablets have soothing colon-action: produce soft, comfortable bowel movements.

Packaging is my Specialty!

Yes, youngster, a nice package but if you're going to represent Union Pacific you'll have to learn more than that. Your job will be to assist shippers in properly packaging commodities for rail shipment so they'll arrive in the best possible condition.

Our shipper friends know what fancy curves in the way of unusual shipments can be thrown at us. Lots of run-of-the-mill products need special packaging and handling, too—especially the ones which are marked "fragile." That's why we maintain a staff of "container engineers" to work with you in developing just the right methods of packaging and car loading.

So, Mister Shipper, here's just one more U. P. service that's yours for the asking. After all, we're as interested as you are in eliminating loss and damage. Have you a packaging headache? Ask us to prescribe a cure.
